

TECHNICAL NOTE: WORD TO PDF USING XF RENDERING SERVER

Last updated: 5/24/2011

XF Rendering Server can convert Microsoft Word documents to PDF. It supports both WordML (Word 2003 XML) and DocX (Word 2007 and later) formats and can generate more than 20 different output formats.

Ecrion XF Rendering Server neither uses nor requires Microsoft Word to be installed on the same computer. Because of this, it is able to process thousands of Word documents on-demand or in-batch in a high-availability, multithreaded server environment.

BASIC FEATURES

Features that are used by most documents are all supported:

- Text, tabs/tab stops, and images
- Tables
- Bulleted/numbered lists
- Inline, paragraph and table formatting including styles and themes
- Full pagination support, including page size, multiple columns, column balancing, continuous section breaks, page orientation, etc.

ADVANCED FEATURES

May advanced features of Microsoft Word are also supported:

- Content controls including data binding
- Fields and other dynamic elements
- Conditional styles for tables
- Including a Word document in another (altChunk)
- VML, DrawingML and other shapes
- Formulas
- Bookmark annotations
- Tables of contents

LIMITATIONS

The following elements are not supported or have limited support: Smart Art, Equations, Charts and diagrams, "Tight" and "Square" wrapping for images.

CONCLUSION

Ecrion XF Rendering Server provides extensive support for converting Word documents to 20+ output formats including PDF, Postscript, JPEG, PNG, TIFF, Silverlight and more.

According to our customers we are the only solution that is almost as good as Microsoft Word at processing Word documents! And unlike other solutions, you can use XF
